Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Capelle et al. in view of Kim '290.

There is disclosed in Capelle a cooking utensil comprising: a main body 3 forming an interior for containing food; a stiffening plate 6 provided with a plurality of through holes 10; and a heat transfer plate 5 interposed between a bottom surface of the main body and the bottom surface of the stiffening plate, wherein the heat transfer plate and the main body are pressed against each other and then attached to each other so that the heat transfer plate is partially inserted into the through holes.

Kim discloses that it is known in the art to use a stiffening plate 40 which extends to the edge of a side surface of a main body 10, and provided with a plurality of through holes 41.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modify the stiffening plate of Capelle with that taught by Kim, in order to protect the entire bottom surface of the main body.

Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the prior art as applied to claim 3 above, and further in view of Huppi et al.

Huppi teaches that it is known in the art to soften a heat transfer plate material 6 in order to apply it to a bottom surface of a main body.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to modify the construction method of Capelle, as modified by Kim, with that taught by Huppi, in order to provide an alternative means of applying the heat transfer plate to the main body.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the prior art as applied to claim 3 above, and further in view of Kim '611.

Kim teaches that it is known in the art to use the claimed temperature and pressure ranges when constructing a multiple layered bottom to a cooking utensil.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to construct the vessel of Capelle, as modified by Kim, using the temperature and pressure ranges disclosed in Kim '611, in order to ensure the adhesion of the transfer plate and stiffening plate to the bottom of the utensil.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The patents to Cartossi and Coudurier et al. are cited for their disclosure of the state of the art.
